I have ten children with six different women - Meiway reveals on TLNCS

Accra, September 17, 2012

Even before mounting the stage to give support to Amakye Dede on the Legends and Legacy ball on Saturday night, Freddy Meiway had exposed part of his life that he had wanted to keep close to himself.

The Ivorian sensational singing superstar, Freddy Meiway told Dzifa Smith on the Late Nite Celebrity Show that he has lived a life that his children and the younger generation will not want to emulate despite being a hugely successful figure on the music stage.

According to him, he has fathered ten children with six different women and so doesn't see himself fit to be an icon to be emulated.

"I told you I am not an example, I have just ten (children) with six mothers," he stated when Dzifa Smith had asked him about his children.

"I did so many bad things. I am not an example. Most of the time you can say to the mother kill the child because you don't need it, but for me I kept them. I want to cry, it's very sad. I am not an example.

"I kept all of my children with six different mothers and I stay with all of them"

For a nice looking, hugely successful musician like himself, you would expect that ladies will easily fall for him especially when he has hidden within his mind that getting on stage to perform makes him a single man not attached to any woman.

"In professional life, I am single. When I get on stage, I am for all the women but when I get home, I am for my wife only," he told Dzifa.

This might have resulted in his being a father to ten children with six different women.

He however revealed that, "I stayed with only one of them. I chose the fourth one. I stayed with the fourth one because she forgave me (for all the wrongs that I have done)"

Before leaving the show, the man who has witnessed civil war in his native Ivory Coast had a word for Ghanaians concerning the December elections.

"I am an Ivorian so I have an experience (of war) and I know what my country went through during the (political) crisis," he said.

"I want to give an advice to all Ghanaians that the next election is very soon so try to be an example for Africa like they did in Senegal. We need peace to do everything," he said with smile.
